Company Profile

Kohl’s mission is to be the leading family-focused, value-oriented specialty department store offering quality exclusive and national brand merchandise to the customer in an environment that is convenient, friendly and exciting. Kohl’s operates from coast to coast. At the end of fiscal 2007, we served customers in 929 stores in 47 states and on Kohls.com.
At Kohl’s, we’ve created an experience that is inviting, inspiring, comfortable and just for her. That's the essence of great shopping—and a great company.
Dear Shareholders,

The 2007 retail environment proved challenging for most retailers, and Kohl’s was no exception. Although we achieved record sales for our 16th consecutive year as a public company, our earnings performance was disappointing relative to our expectations entering the year.

Net sales for the year increased 5.6 percent to $16.5 billion. On a comparable store basis, sales decreased 0.8 percent. Net income decreased 2.2 percent to $1.08 billion. Earnings per diluted share increased from $3.31 to $3.39.

Financial Discipline

Kohl’s continues to be financially strong. Our sales per square foot are among the highest in the industry. Our operating margin of 11 percent in 2007 was also one of the highest in the industry. Our capital structure is well positioned to support our expansion plans. Internally generated cash flows will continue to be the primary source of funding for our future growth and will provide liquidity in a challenging economic environment.

We completed our 2006 $2 billion share repurchase program in the second quarter of 2007. In September, we announced a new $2.5 billion share repurchase program which is expected to be completed by the end of fiscal 2010. We are committed to maintaining our BBB+ credit rating as well as distributing excess capital to our shareholders.

In 2007, we invested $1.5 billion in capital projects to grow our store base, remodel existing stores, support our future growth and enhance productivity.

Growing Market Share

We added 112 stores in 2007, increasing our store base from 817 to 929 stores. We opened 80 stores on a single day in October, marking the largest grand opening in company history. Significant expansion occurred in the Pacific Northwest and Florida as well as in established markets.

In 2008, we expect to open approximately 70–75 stores led by our entry into the Miami-Ft. Lauderdale-West Palm Beach market. As an ongoing strategy to increase our market share, we’ll also continue to expand our presence in existing markets. To support both new and existing growth, we also will open a new distribution center.

Strategies to Deliver

Our strategic initiatives remain consistent and are the roadmap for our future success. These initiatives focus on merchandise content, marketing, inventory management and the in-store shopping experience, ultimately positioning Kohl’s as the store just for her.

Expanding our merchandise offering is critical to increasing market share and engaging a broader range of customers. In the updated and contemporary categories, we introduced Simply Vera Vera Wang and Food Network nationwide in September 2007, along with the ELLE Contemporary Collection in about half the chain. The ELLE Contemporary Collection will be available in all stores spring 2008. These brands were eagerly embraced by our customers. Brands such as Chaps continue to attract our core classic customer while the introduction of Dana Buchman in spring 2009 will enhance our classic offerings.

In 2008, we will add even more variety and innovation to our merchandise with the nationwide rollout of the ELLE Contemporary Collection, an expansion of our Food Network relationship through a partnership with Bobby Flay, the introduction of Gold Toe and the introduction of FILA SPORT in the fall. To support our growing portfolio of world-class brands, we opened a design office in 2007 in the heart of New York’s garment district to speed the collaboration process with many of our exclusive partners.

Our marketing program is designed to differentiate Kohl’s in the marketplace. The program uses a strategically selected variety of mediums to build awareness and desire for our national, private and exclusive brands and increase traffic and sales. We focused our efforts on encouraging our customer to explore the store to increase the number of areas of the store she shops for her family and herself. This will be a continued focus in 2008 in all of our advertising and marketing.

Improving inventory flow and increasing speed-to-market continue to be important initiatives. Our goal is to reduce our average product cycle time from 40 weeks to 25 by the end of 2009 for most products. Brands requiring “fast fashion,” such as the ELLE Contemporary Collection, can be developed in as few as 12–16 weeks. We will remain conservative in our inventory planning and will rely on our supplier partnerships to replenish merchandise quickly as business conditions improve.

Enhancing the in-store shopping experience revolves around making our stores more visually exciting and easier to shop. Introduced in 2006, our innovation store design is aimed directly at broadening customer appeal. Phase II of the innovation store was implemented in our fall 2007 new stores and focused on encouraging cross-shopping in our stores. Elements included a redesign of the juniors’ area, including new fitting rooms, and improved presentation of handbags, intimate apparel and jewelry. In fall, we begin phase III of our innovation in select stores focusing on enhancements in children’s and shoes. We continue to evaluate customer reaction to these changes and expect that store innovations will be a continual process.

Kohl’s Cares

With our Kohl’s Cares for Kids program, we continue to donate significant resources, hours and merchandise to improve children’s lives in communities nationwide. We also have focused our efforts on being a good corporate citizen in environmental matters and are proud of our recognition by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) as a leader in the retail industry and in the use of “green” power.

We wish to take this opportunity to say thank you to James D. Ericson and R. Elton White for their 11 and 14 years of service, respectively, as members of Kohl’s board of directors. They both will be retiring in April 2008.

Stephanie A. Streeter joined our board of directors in 2007, bringing her experience in technology and supply-chain management, including six years with Banta Corporation, to Kohl’s. We also welcomed Don Brennan and John Worthington as principals and senior executive vice presidents in charge of merchandising and stores, respectively.

Looking Forward

We expect 2008 to be a challenging year from a macroeconomic perspective. We are planning conservatively in our sales expectations, inventory levels and expenses. We will continue to invest the necessary resources to ensure our profitable growth over the long term through investments in associates and technology. We also will utilize our strong financial position to continue to expand in new and existing markets in order to grow market share in a difficult environment.

With prudent financial management in 2008, we are confident we will emerge as an even stronger company. While we have a lot of work to do, I believe our business is well positioned thanks to our 125,000 dedicated associates, shareholders, customers and business partners. It is because of them that you can continue to “expect great things” from Kohl’s in 2008 and beyond.

LARRY MONTGOMERY
Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
In 2007, we launched several new and exclusive brands—each aligned with our strategy of offering more lifestyle solutions and more meaningful merchandise. Behind every new addition is our commitment to deliver compelling merchandise and offer inspiration for her and her family.

In September, we introduced Simply Vera Vera Wang, a Kohl’s exclusive, from one of the world’s best-known designers. Customer response was nothing short of phenomenal as these fresh, contemporary designs were rolled out in women’s, jewelry, shoes, accessories, intimates and soft home. Simply Vera Vera Wang was the largest cross-category brand launch in Kohl’s history, providing our customers with an exciting, world-class fashion choice in our growing contemporary lifestyle category.

Another exclusive was the ELLE Contemporary Collection of women’s apparel, from the company that publishes ELLE magazine. This collection of runway-inspired fashion was quickly embraced by our style-conscious shopper. Because new merchandise arrives frequently, there are always fresh, on-trend wardrobe essentials to inspire her.

We also launched an exclusive partnership with Food Network, the lifestyle leader in food and entertaining. This year, we’ll extend that relationship with the introduction of a first-ever collection of kitchenware and casual entertaining products from chef Bobby Flay, one of Food Network’s best-known talents.

Looking ahead, one of the most recognizable names in activewear will join the brand line-up at Kohl’s in 2008—the FILA SPORT collection. This respected brand will include apparel, footwear and accessories for women, men and children.

On the horizon for our classic customer is Dana Buchman, designed by Liz Claiborne. Dana Buchman will join Chaps in our classic lifestyle category, giving our customer another true lifestyle experience encompassing apparel, intimates, accessories and footwear in spring 2009.

Along with our commitment to bring her great merchandise, we continue to work on many levels throughout our organization to tailor the assortment by size, lifestyle and climate, just for her. Through our brand launches, we know we are bringing her relevant styles and inspired solutions. More and more, we have what she wants and what she’ll want next. That’s how we’re moving our business forward.
Our merchandise selection inspires, excites and delights her. Kohl’s becomes not just a destination, but an opportunity to discover.
She is attracted to new things. Truly inspired solutions put her at ease. She trusts us to put it all together. She feels confident she’s making good choices.

Today, we have greater clarity than ever before as to where our opportunities lie and how to leverage them for business growth. We continue to deepen our understanding of our customer and identify new ways to be the store for her.

First and foremost, we are inviting her in by showcasing merchandise and communicating value. Our stores feature inviting brand graphics that not only show her how to create the head-to-toe look but also help her navigate the store to find exactly what she wants. Innovative merchandising displays showcase complete wardrobe solutions—from the must-have jacket to the coordinating handbag. By making it easier for her to shop the store, we will achieve our goal of moving her from buying a single item to creating a total look.

We will continue to improve and expand her Kohl’s experience with new features and enhancements on Kohls.com. A recent website addition invites her to “play” with the colors of spring as she simply clicks her way to another solution.

As we move forward, we will continue to focus on marketing that builds trust through an inviting and reassuring voice. This messaging will reinforce Kohl’s positioning of outstanding value both in what she gets for her money and what she gets from the experience across all marketing mediums. Marketing is more focused than ever on presenting inspired solutions and bringing her value to make her life easier.
Growing Market Share

Store growth is not only about putting points on a map. It’s a strategic initiative that continues to position Kohl’s as a leading national retailer. Our market share continues to grow as we expand our presence across the nation.

In October of 2007, we opened 80 new stores on a single day, making the event the largest grand opening in our company’s history. In all, we opened 112 new stores in 2007 for a year-end total of 929 stores.

In 2008, we look forward to opening approximately 70–75 stores nationwide and will celebrate the opening of our 1,000th store in the fall. We are excited to enter the Miami-Ft. Lauderdale-West Palm Beach market and will open a new distribution center in Ottawa, Illinois. Our strong financial position will allow us to continue to expand in new and existing markets in order to grow our market share in a difficult environment.

Growth Through Innovation

In addition to increasing our number of stores, we continue to introduce innovations that will be both meaningful and inspirational to our customers. With our three store formats—suburban, small and urban—we will deliver right-sized stores to markets of all sizes within our various regions. And, while all three formats remain part of our expansion, our 88,000 square-foot suburban store will be the predominant Kohl’s format. Our innovation store design is aimed squarely at broadening customer appeal and reach through an enhanced shopping experience.

Building new stores and presence in different regions is part of our growth strategy, but equally important is the need to continually remodel our existing stores. The same quality improvements and innovations that go into new stores are also being applied to store remodels. We are continually evolving our stores to deliver our customers the great in-store shopping experience they expect from Kohl’s.
Going into a store she loves makes her happy. She feels connected. She feels special. She knows she belongs here.

She finds what she wants for herself and for her family.

Our customer’s needs are always evolving, and we’re evolving with her. Through our commitment to continuous innovation, we are finding meaningful new ways to elevate the Kohl’s experience and reinforce that we are the store for her.

In 2007, our juniors’ department was redesigned with new flooring, a fun lounge area and new brand graphics. A variety of new merchandising displays help her scope out trends of the season and create a head-to-toe look. Handbags and fashion accessories are merchandised on low-to-high fixtures, allowing the customer to focus on the product.

We gave our jewelry department a fresh, new look with higher, rim-lit ceilings and upscale lighting fixtures that showcase our products and create a pleasing atmosphere. New glass displays with enhanced lighting increase visual impact of the merchandise, and newly designed displays now offer a hands-on experience. It’s one more way she discovers solutions at Kohl’s, making every visit more rewarding.

We streamlined her shopping experience with new technology that improves checkout speed. At the same time, we instituted an innovative process for expediting returns, making her life easier in ways she appreciates.

As we move forward, innovation is the key to providing a continually improved shopping experience that she’s looking for. So now, more than ever, she can expect great things at Kohl’s.
The key to our ongoing success continues to be our associates. Over 125,000 strong, our associates bring the talent, inspiration and leadership that are the foundation of the organization.

Our human resources initiatives are focused on attracting and recruiting world-class associates, and being recognized as a great employer certainly helps. Last year, Kohl’s was named one of the “Top-50 Best Places to Launch a Career” by BusinessWeek magazine. Retaining and developing these associates to be the best is the key to delivering operational excellence and will continue to drive our growth over the long term.

A-Team

Kohl’s has always been a family-focused company with a rich history of supporting its communities. We are proud to report that in 2007, through our associates, customers and corporate financial contributions, Kohl’s provided approximately $42 million to our community programs across the country.

Associates volunteer their time to support various youth-focused charities through the Kohl’s A-Team. Their participation is matched with corporate grants that are given to the youth-serving charities our associates choose to support. This year, we are especially proud of our A-Team members who volunteered more than 136,000 hours, which more than doubled the number of hours volunteered in 2006 and raised over $3.25 million dollars, a 164 percent increase over 2006.

From leading Girl Scout troops to organizing events for Special Olympics, 96 percent of our 929 stores had A-Teams volunteer for local causes they cared about nationwide.
Kohl’s Cares for Kids

Our associates aspire for greatness every day in the workplace and in the communities we serve. Kohl’s associates contribute time, effort and funding to reputable programs such as the United Way and the American Red Cross. Over the past six years, Kohl’s has also partnered with the U.S. Youth Soccer Association and recently announced a three-year contract extension to support this national children’s initiative.

Throughout the year, Kohl’s Cares for Kids sells special merchandise with 100 percent of the net profits supporting children’s health and education initiatives nationwide. This spring, Kohl’s Cares for Kids features books and plush characters from the beloved Dr. Seuss. Net profits from the 2007 Kohl’s Cares for Kids sales were used to support our large network of hospital partners across the nation.

Our annual Kohl’s Kids Who Care Scholarship Program gives us the opportunity to recognize and reward youth who volunteer in their communities. In 2007, we recognized 1,442 young volunteers with scholarships and prizes for making a difference in their communities. By growing our Kohl’s Cares for Kids program, we continue our commitment to children and strengthen the communities in which we serve.

Kohl’s Green Scene

Reducing our ecological footprint is important to the world. Our “green” mission is to be a leading environmentally responsible retailer through focused resource stewardship. In 2007, we created the Green Scene to organize business practices that are good for the environment and for Kohl’s.

Recently, Kohl’s was ranked No. 2 on the EPA’s Top 10 Retail Partners List for the Green Power Partnership Program. Kohl’s also ranked eighth on the Fortune 500 List of green power purchasers, and we’re proud to have received a 2007 EPA Green Power Leadership Award. This year, we also committed to the largest purchase and deployment of solar power by a single entity in U.S. history. When complete, our California solar program will include solar installations on more than 60 Kohl’s rooftops in the state.

Also in 2007, Kohl’s announced that we will pursue Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) certification for more than 80 locations in 28 states beginning in fall 2008 and continuing through 2009. The LEED Green Building Rating System assesses site planning, water management, energy use, material use, air quality and innovation in the design process among other attributes. It is the nationally accepted benchmark for the design, construction and operation of high-performance green buildings.

In addition, Kohl’s encourages our many business partners to be environmentally conscious. Our transportation carriers are prioritizing fuel efficiency as participants in the EPA Smartway program. In addition, Kohl’s uses rail transportation for approximately one-third of all inbound transportation because it uses less fuel and causes fewer emissions than truck service.

Through our Green Scene efforts, we are managing our impact on the environment and demonstrating our commitment to transforming our future.
